

INDUSTRIAL TOURISM
GUIMARÃES

Experiencing the pulse of industry in Guimarães is seeing how it's done... well done.

Feel the real pulse of industry in Guimarães

Guimarães is recognised for its historical legacy and for forging a future built on the labour, dedication and entrepreneurship of visionaries who have made remarkable achievements that resonate beyond our borders.

The city features a robust and innovative industrial sector of resilient and visionary individuals with values centred on quality, innovation and trust. These values attract other visionaries and dreamers in search of inspiration to contribute to their own history and that of everyone.

Lasa was established by Armando da Silva Antunes in 1971. Initially, the company sold handkerchiefs and kitchen towels, but in 1980 it expanded its production to focus exclusively on terry bath towels. Over the last 50 years, Lasa has acquired and established other companies as a part of its continuous consolidation process. All subsidiaries of Lasa Group are based in the north of Portugal, specifically in Guimarães, the heart of the textile industry. The company constantly invests in technology, methodology and the training of over 600 employees spread across an internal area of approximately 40,000m². The sustainable growth of each subsidiary has contributed to the overall success of the Lasa Group.

Industrial tourism has been consolidating in Portugal through the increase of an offer supported by visits to working factories and museum equipment linked to industrial complexes with relevant histories, providing visitors with experiences related to production processes or their historical and cultural past. Companies in Guimarães and the municipality join others across the country in promoting this type of tourist offer, thus contributing to a better understanding of national production, distinctive in both tradition and modernity.

Industrial tourism allows for the differentiation of the tourist offer in certain territories, by enhancing and sharing identity aspects that confer authenticity to the experience.
